

Australia's fastest growing law firm secures network with Netbox Blue

Queensland based legal firm HopgoodGanim knows the value of good business practice. The firm is not only recognized for its technical expertise, it's been named fastest growing law firm in Australia. When it comes to network security, the firm relies on another company dedicated to providing real business benefits from its IT solutions, Netbox Blue.

The Netbox which combines an enterprise class firewall, spam filtering as well as a suite of internet management features in the one appliance, was chosen by HopgoodGanim because it offered a cost-effective solution to the firm's security needs. Now IT staff members rank the Netbox as the most reliable appliance on the network. It has become a crucial part of the firm's security infrastructure and a vital tool in protecting the firm's all important corporate data.

"I'd give it the gold medal for the most reliable," HopgoodGanim IT Manager Roberto Dettori says. "It's an excellent product."

An easy-to-manage solution for complex problems

The Netbox stands at the gateway of the HopgoodGanim network protecting the firm from a myriad of threats – viruses, phishing attacks, botnet attacks, denial of service attacks and hacking.

"The firewall is very reliable. We rarely have to touch it," Mr Dettori says.

Mr Dettori says the firm also finds the Netbox a useful tool for troubleshooting network problems. The email logging feature is used to settle any confusion when one party believes an email has been sent and the other hasn't received it. A quick glance at the email log can determine if an email has left the firm or has been held up in the network.

"It's a very useful feature," Mr Dettori says. "If it's on the log and it's not in the email queues, then it's gone. It's proof that it has been sent."

"I'd give it the gold medal for most reliable.
The Netbox is a solution that I would recommend to other law firms.
I already have on many occasions."

“Support is a high priority for me and it’s reassuring to know that if something happens, help is just a phone call away,” Mr Dettori says.

“The Netbox is a solution that I would recommend to other law firms. I already have on many occasions.”
